"I'm In Race To Stay - Win." Says Alford

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Dale Alford answered opponents Friday night by saying he's in the governor's race to stay — and win.

Alford, appearing on a Little Rock television station, said rumors that he would withdraw from the race for the Democratic nomination obviously were circulated by his opposition.

"Let there be no doubt about it... I shall continue to be in the race," the Little Rock congressman said in his 15 minute telecast.

One of the questions in his mind, Alford said, is: "Why are the political bosses and racketeers trying to keep Dale Alford out of the governor's office?"

He warned that he would neither be a "captive candidate nor a political puppet in the hands of greedy men."

Alford said his television appearance was provoked earlier in campaign than he had planned by the rumors being circulated about him.

He said he felt he had to expose the "absolute absurdity of the rumors and malicious falsehoods which have been circulating about me."

Alford did not discuss his platform in detail but acknowledged that he would push for creation of an overall agency for the benefit of agriculture.

"Agriculture is still Arkansas' basic industry, but it has been neglected in the race for manufacturing plants," he commented.

Alford showed a picture of a house trailer which he said has been converted into a mobile campaign headquarters in which he will tour the state.

He also said the "Arkansas" quartet has been engaged to accompany him on his campaign tour.

Alford expressed concern over alleged support by Winthrop Rockefeller of Morrillton for two of his opponents, Sid McMath and Marvin Melton.

"We all know Rockefeller's connection with the present governor," Alford said.

Rockefeller, who is Republican National Committeeman from Arkansas, was named to head the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission by the incumbent Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

McMath denied knowing of any such Rockefeller support but said he would welcome it as he would support from any Arkansas citizen.

Suit Seeks to Void Poll Tax List

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP) — A suit seeking to void the Conway County poll tax list has been filed in Conway Circuit Court by Robert J. Mobley.

The suit contends the list contains "hundreds of inaccuracies" and asks the court to order a new and correct list prepared.

Mobley is chairman of the Conway County Better Government League which is engaged in a running feud with some county officials.

The league filed charges of election irregularities last year. A grand jury investigated but returned no indictments.

Defendants in Mobley's suit are members of the Elections Commission, Sheriff and Collector Martin Hawkins and County Clerk C.C. Brewer.

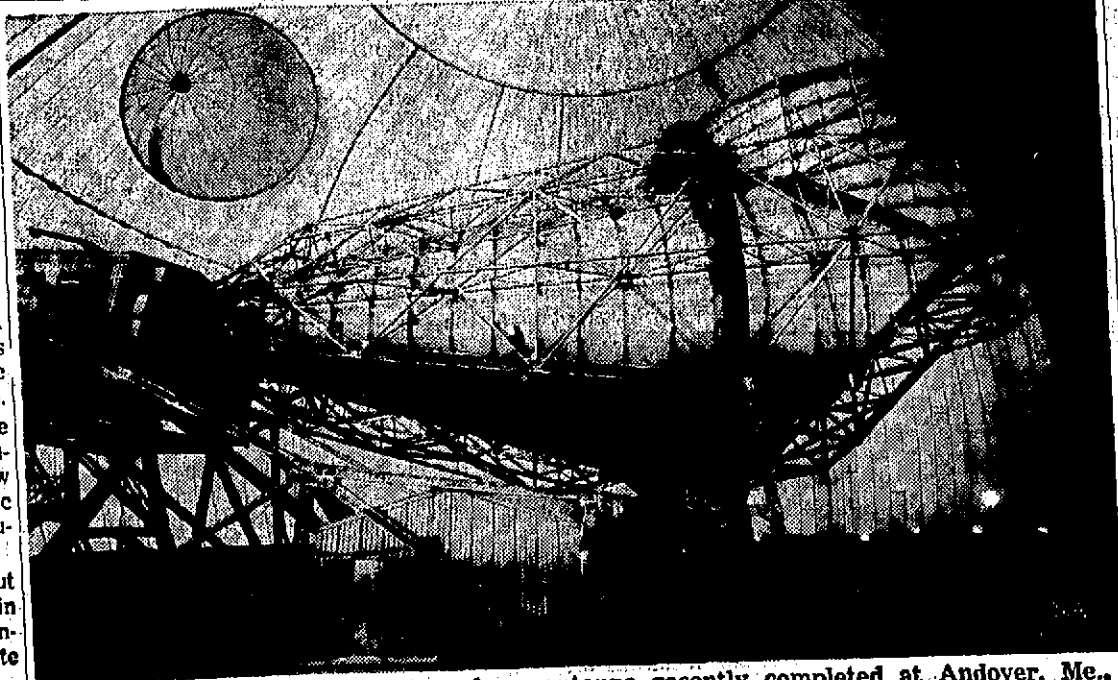

Mobley said Hawkins and Brewer were included because they certified the poll tax list as correct. He said months of investigation had turned up the alleged irregularities.

Inaccuracies mentioned in the suit include duplicate listings, listings in the names of persons unknown in the communities where they are supposed to live and listing for persons too young to vote.

HORNING IN ON SPACE—Huge horn antenna recently completed at Andover, Me., points upward as though tracking a satellite. When the Telstar satellite, built by the Bell System, is launched this year, the horn will both transmit signals to and receive signals from the satellite, which will act as a radio relay tower in space. Space Flight Is Delayed Three Days

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —

The world orbit flight of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter has been delayed three days until next Tuesday to improve reliability of the parachute system on his spacecraft, Aurora 7.

The surprise announcement of the delay came late Thursday night after a mission review meeting attended by Carpenter, Operations Director Walter Williams and other top Project Mercury officials.

Discussion centered on a question raised nearly three months ago: Why did the small stabilizing parachute on Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s capsule unfurl at 27,000 feet instead of the intended 21,000 feet?

Mercury officials, apparently were convinced at that time that it was a random failure, not likely to happen again, and no parachute changes were made in Carpenter's capsule.

Plans had been progressing smoothly for a flight scheduled Saturday.

But at Thursday night's hastily-called meeting, Williams reviewed completely the Glenn three orbit flight and, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said, "began to ask questions about the parachute deployment."

Williams wanted to know if there was a possibility the small parachute could pop out even sooner, perhaps during orbit. If so, it would burn up on re-entry and lose its value as a stabilizing force for the capsule.

Engineers were not able to explain the malfunction to Williams' satisfaction, the spokesman said, and at 10:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, after a 2½-hour session, Williams decided to postpone the flight to provide a backup parachute deployment switch.

Thinks Cease Fire in Laos Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President

Kennedy says it is essential that a cease-fire be worked out in Laos — even along the line which now separates government and pro-Communist troops.

"Obviously we would prefer as great a withdrawal to the line that was in effect a week or so ago as we could get," the President told his news conference Thursday. But, he added, "I would think that the peace along the line which now may exist, of course, is essential."

Pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas broke a year-old cease-fire last week in Laos and advanced to the point where the new control on estimated two-thirds of the Southeast Asian kingdom.

The United States is bringing heavy pressure on the pro-Western royal government to go ahead with talks on the formation of a new coalition government. Formation of such a government, Kennedy said, is the object of the United States.

Nearly 300 newsmen and guests turned out for Kennedy's 33rd news conference, which elicited these other presidential views:

Estes — Kennedy disclosed that 75 FBI agents had been assigned to the Billie Sol Estes case and said, "This government is staying right on Mr. Estes' trail."

Kennedy contended that the indicted Texas financier's financial maneuverings were first brought to public attention when "this administration indicted Mr. Estes before a state agency in Texas or any place else moved."

De Gaulle — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, rather than separate forces, offers the best means of protecting allied interests, Kennedy said, but the French president's plan to develop a nuclear-armed force apart from NATO is a decision for France to make. He called De Gaulle, nonetheless, stalwart in defense of the West.

Farm — Kennedy said his program would help relieve the mountainous storage of surplus crops, "the kind of situation which resulted in Mr. Estes' manipulations." Estes gained contracts for the storage of an estimated $50 million in grain.

On Laos, Kennedy said it was too early to say how long the 5,000 American combat troops sent to Thailand would remain there.

"They have only been in there for a very short while," Kennedy said, "and we can't tell when they will come out. It will depend a good deal on what conditions are in Thailand and the neighboring countries."

Marines Join Thai Army In Maneuvers

By TONY ESCODA

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Monsoon-drenched U.S. Marines prepared today to join Thai army units in military maneuvers near Thailand's tense border with Communist-occupied Laos.

Torrential rains lashed the rice paddies where the bulk of the 1,000-man Marine battle group in northeast Thailand is camped only 30 miles from the Mekong River border with Laos. The Marines plodded through deep mud this morning to clean up their impressive array of shooting iron.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, overall commander of the U.S. force in Thailand, flew to northeast Laos today to inspect the situation, which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned might explode into a shooting match like the Korean War.

Harkins, also head of the U.S. Military Assistance Command in South Vietnam, declared that the American forces in Thailand are under hold-fire orders. But he warned that danger still lurks from pro-Communist forces in Laos whose recent offensive brought American troops rushing to Thailand to discourage any further Communist advances.

Lt. Gen. James L. Richardson and U.S. Ambassador Kenneth T. Young accompanied Harkins on the flight to Udorn, 350 miles north-east of Bangkok. They arranged to drive to the town of Nong Han, where the Marines are camped.

Communist radio broadcasts claimed royal Lao troops attacked and drove back pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels from an area near the royal capital of Luang Prabang earlier this week.

But reports from Laos indicated a lull in military activity as attention focused on diplomatic maneuvers that the United States hopes will bring about a neutral Laos and end the need for U.S. troops in Thailand.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, self-styled Lao nationalist leader, headed home from Europe today to try once again to form a non-aligned government, which both the United States and the Soviet Union say they want.

The anti-Communist, Vientiane government of Premier Prince Boum Oum and strongman Gen. Phoumi Nosavan had balked at joining a coalition under Souvanna, contending he is too weak to prevent pro-Communists from leading Laos into the Red camp.

But after recent Pathet Lao gains, they asked Souvanna to return for another try.

The Communists meanwhile mounted a torrent of words — but no overt moves — at the U.S. military buildup in Thailand.

In Bulgaria last night, Khrushchev called the move unwise and said it might lead to another Korea.

"I am surprised at how the Americans plunged into this net," he told Western correspondents. "Once you are in, you know it is not easy to get out. They (the Americans) went into Korea very easily and nevertheless that lasted three years."

Khrushchev said the Americans went into Thailand "with their weapons and they will use them — they will shoot and those at whom they shoot will shoot back."

Red China accused the United States of trying to engulf the whole of Southeast Asia in a "local" Korea-type of war and declared it could not ignore the dispatch of U.S. troops to Thailand.

More Than 1,400 Roses Bear Woman's Name — A Queen to Plain Old Kate, Susan

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Shakespeare may have been right when he said "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." But we wonder if any other name would as aptly describe the beautiful bloom.

In today's popular rose market, there are about 5,700 different varieties, each with a name. Generally, these are named for people, especially women. More than 1,400 roses bear a woman's name, from Queen Elizabeth to actresses to wives and daughters of rose growers.

Entertainment world personalities for whom a rose received a name include Gracie Fields, Lily Pons, Dinah Shore, Helen Hayes, Hildegarde, Kate Smith, Mary Pickford, Rochelle Hudson, Shirley Temple, Sonja Henie, Wendy Barrie and Susan Ball.

The most successful rose in the stage-screen category is the Helen Traubel. It is a pink hybrid tea rose, and more than a million plants of it have been sold. The only All-American rose named for a stage celebrity, it won the 1951 Rome Gold Medal and was a winner in the 1952 All-American Rose Selections. Like the woman for whom it was named, this rose has received well-deserved honors at home and abroad.

Men have not been entirely forgotten in the names of roses. In fact, some 900 of them have a masculine moniker. Some of these men were presidents, some were war heroes and, as you would imagine, some were rose growers.

Peculiar characters have had their share of honors in the Name of the Rose category. Though we had heard of the Scarlett O'Hara, it came as a surprise to this writer to learn there is a Charlie McCarthy and a Tarzan in the rose family. By the same token, the pinocchio rose is familiar but not the Dopey, named for one of the Seven Dwarfs. The Mrs. Miniver rose is, perhaps, the best known in this group. Not only was it intrawoven in the story itself, but it has found a place in gardens in many places.

May is the month of roses, the unofficial flower of our country and the official one of several other lands. Look around Hope and you will see beautiful roses at nearly every home. When you gather roses from your garden or receive them from someone else, there are four steps you are advised to take.

1. With a sharp knife, cut about an inch off the bottom of each stem. Remove any leaves that would extend below the surface of the water in the final arrangement.

2. Place them in a tall, clean container in a cool place to "soak up" or "harden" for an hour before arranging — Use warm water — about 100 degrees F. — to hasten the flow of water up the stem.

3. Use warm water and a floral preservative when you arrange your flowers.

4. If you use a "dental foam" as a holder, be sure that it is thoroughly soaked and add water daily to replace that which is absorbed by the flowers.

Regardless of your name or that of your roses, these steps will help you have a prettier bouquet.

Union's Hoffa Indicted By Federal Court

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was indicted by a federal court jury here Friday on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley Law and collecting some $1 million illegally.

The two-count indictment, which involved payment through an auto transport firm, incorporated in Nashville, was revealed in Washington by Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy. The attorney general, along with his brother President Kennedy, then a senator, participated in an investigation of the firm by the McClellan committee looking into improper labor practices.

Hoffa, who pleaded innocent earlier Friday to a charge of assault pressed by a union aide, declined to discuss the new indictment with newsmen. But a teamster official in Chicago said Hoffa "shed no tears" when informed of it.

Hoffa, who flew to Chicago for two scheduled talks after his Washington court appearance, sent Harold Gibbons, executive vice president of the Teamsters, as a substitute at a scheduled Chicago press conference.

"If it (the indictment) is anything like other indictments against labor leaders in this country," Gibbons told newsmen, "the essence of it is anything but the truth."

If convicted, Hoffa could be sentenced to up to one year in prison and fined $10,000 on each of the two counts.

At Orlando, Fla., federal court has under advisement a petition by Hoffa's lawyers to dismiss a federal mail fraud indictment based on a land development deal involving alleged misuse of half a million dollars of teamster union funds.

Indicted with Hoffa at Nashville was Commercial Carriers, Inc., a Detroit auto transport firm charged with setting up the Tennessee firm, Test Fleet Corp., and throwing lucrative Cadillac auto hauling business its way. At the time, Commercial Carriers had a labor contract with the Teamsters Union.

The indictment charges Hoffa and the late Owen Brennan, former Teamsters vice president, received $1,000,000 from Commercial Carriers through Test Fleet, the stock of which had been transferred by Commercial Carriers to Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Brennan under their maiden names.

Dist. Judge William E. Miller set June 7 for Hoffa and representatives of Commercial Carriers to appear here for arraignment.

The assault case against Hoffa by Samuel Baron, 59-year-old field director of the Teamsters National Warehouse Division, was set for trial June 19. Hoffa's request for a jury trial was granted.

Baron, who exhibited a bruised and cut up face, said Hoffa attacked him in the union's plush Washington headquarters Thursday evening, climaxing a feud of long standing.

Would Use Vaccine by Communities

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The use of oral polio vaccine received an apparent boost Thursday when the state health department recommended the vaccine be used on a community basis rather than as an individual program.

Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, cited the live virus type of vaccine, employed in the oral variety, as the basis or community immunization.

The Salk vaccine, widely used in the United States, is prepared from killed virus, erroneously pointed out, and is injected.

Oral vaccine, recently approved or used in this country by the United States Public Health Service, is taken either in syrup form or on a lump of sugar.

The vaccine must be stored at low temperatures and lives about one week, Herron said.

"These actors make oral vaccine more applicable to mass immunization rather than for office and clinic use on an individual basis," he said.

An ideal mass program, Herron said, would be to 90 to 95 percent of a community to receive the oral vaccine. The remaining 10 to 20 per cent likely would be protected through contract, the health officer said.

For safeguarding reasons, such a mass program should not be undertaken without a virus laboratory being set up, Herron cautioned.

The laboratory would check the effectiveness of the immunization. Oral vaccine has been widely used and tested in the Soviet Union and Europe, Herron said.

He said neither he nor medical groups envisioned a discontinuation of the Salk vaccine on an individual basis.

Trade Stamps Take Woman to Homeland

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Warren Griswold will fly to Italy next Wednesday to visit her ailing brother, her trip paid for with trading stamps donated by her friends in this central Arkansas town of 9,500.

"Can you believe it?" she said. "I'll leave Little Rock at 6:45 in the morning and get to Naples at 10:35 the next morning! It took me 15 days to come over here by boat."

That was in 1946, when Mrs. Griswold was a war bride. She has not been back to visit her family since.

Her brother, Pasquale Schiraldi, is seriously ill in Naples and Mrs. Griswold was finally unable to make the trip, which would cost more than $700.

Her friends talked a large trading stamp company into the deal, and a grocery store contributed the first 50 books of stamps. Then the women, headed by Mrs. Barney Bishop, rounded up 200 more books.

Mrs. Griswold's husband, a draftsman for the Army Corps of Engineers, will baby sit with their six children, who range in age from 15 months to 15 years, while Mrs. Griswold goes to Italy for about three weeks. Griswold is on vacation.

"I'm very grateful to everybody who made my trip possible," Mrs. Griswold said. "These are wonderful people. But you know, I'm just a housewife and I don't like all this publicity. I lost so many pounds all through this publicity."

Dowell Elected NEW YORK (AP)—Dudley Dowell, formerly of Little Rock, was named president and chief administrator of the New York Life Insurance Co. Wednesday. Dowell joined the firm as a clerk in Little Rock in 1921 and has since remained with the company. He was named a director in 1958.

Business Will Find Way to Combat U. S.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Maybe you are more disturbed by the government business frictions than you need be. In this, first in a series, each self contained, on California reaction to the Kennedy administration's labor management policy, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, reports that many West Coast executives think so.

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Business has been taking some lumps—from government and the stock market. But many business and financial leaders in the West are taking this more calmly—or so they say—than some of their colleagues back East.

Here they think business will go right along setting records for some time yet and making a profit its doing it.

And most of those interviewed here think it's much too early to say that a real antibusiness trend by government has set in. Many of them think business will find ways to live with seemingly new policies that startled them at first.

These included setting up guidelines for their dealings with labor, for setting prices, for profit goals.

"They don't like it but they aren't panicky about it," said the pendulum will swing back, says a leader in a basic industry, referring to recent government crackdowns—the steel price hike failure, antitrust suits, bans on mergers—which made others see a strong antibusiness, antitrust swing setting in.

"Today's attitude in Washington isn't anywhere near as strong as the antibusiness drive of the 1930s," says a leading banker.

"There are plenty of signs that the administration wants us to prosper," says a manufacturer.

"Stock prices have dropped before and the nation has survived," says a utility executive, utility stock prices are more stable than some.

"It's harder to shake our confidence out here. Our growth outlook is too good."

But for all their confidence—and as far as California's future is concerned it might almost be called cockiness—all those interviewed share one belief:

The government is sticking its nose into private business a lot more than it should—even if business isn't going to curl up its toes because of it, as the pessimists have been predicting.

They called this trend dangerous if carried too far. Most hope it won't be. With one voice they say they could do better in the public interest if left alone and regulated less.

Many protest increasing competition from government getting in to business on its own in some fields and becoming a more dominant partner with private business in others.

And all express a common fear. Increasingly they have to be careful what they do, what they say, or some regulatory or investigating agency will be swooping down to look for violations of the fine print in the government rules for conducting a business—and the rules seem to multiply.

Says State Law Costly to Railroads

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas' full-crew law costs the Missouri Pacific Railroad $1 million a year in wages for a free-riding brakeman, said Downing P. Jenks, president of the railroad, in a speech to a civic club here today.

"Arkansas is the only state through which our railroad operates that has a mis-named full-crew law," Jenks said. "Because of that law the railroads in Arkansas must employ an extra brakeman on every freight train running within its borders."

"This brakeman performs no necessary work and serves no useful purpose from a safety or any other standpoint," Jenks added. "To put it bluntly, he just goes along for the ride."

Railroad unions contend the extra brakeman is needed for safety purposes.

Jenks called the law "an obstacle to economical train operation" in Arkansas. He said the Presidential Commission on Railroads had said it couldn't do anything about the law. "You people in Arkansas can," Jenks said. "I wonder when you will."

Jenks said it is painful for railroad officials to contemplate the improvements that might be paid for with the million dollars a year.

"It should be equally painful for shippers to contemplate an unnecessary million dollars that has to be included in the cost of service when rate adjustments are under consideration," he added.

Jenks said 43 per cent of Arkansas' railroad mileage is Missouri Pacific. The railroad is the state's second largest taxpayer.

Boos and Cheers

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You frequently advised an unwed mother to keep her child. There never has been nor is there today any kind of security, self-respect, or peace of mind for the illegitimately born (as the law and society will have it) who grows up with his situation exposed for all to see.

If it is clumsily dealt with at his birth and he is palmed off as the child of his grandparents or another family member, the resulting atmosphere of secrecy and strain surrounding him will sooner or later break.

I concede there may be illegitimate mothers who say it doesn't matter too much. I have in mind the intelligent, sensitive child. If his mother marries and has other children, he is almost certain to be a target in his own family—for either his stepfather or his half-siblings. His mother's consciousness of her guilt will not allow her to defend him. Society protects the adopted child. He can find security in his adoptive status knowing that the name he bears is not a makeshift but legally his own.

I work in a school for girls and in almost every case the discovery that she was illegitimate was the cause of the girl's initial act of delinquency. They all say the same thing: "I just don't feel legal."

I am nearly 70 and have carried the burden of illegitimacy as well as it is possible to do. Yet, it has intruded into every action and colored and conditioned every word I've ever uttered. Yet, strangely, (and inexplicably) my unwary friends consider me a composed, poised person, so it has to be that I've learned to be a pretty good actress.

Now that I've written this, it occurs to me that you may have been considering only the situation of the "illegitimate" mother—for that is what she is—and not that of her child at all. When a girl has illegitimately brought a child into the world, her situation is secondary. She is all the more responsible, for society will more or less accept her, depending upon her status and qualifications; it will completely reject her child. I shall sign my name but please don't reveal it. Even at nearly 70, I still hide in—"Anonymity."

Dear "Anonymity": What you say is true of the period in which you grew up. Victorian thinking still prevailed in the early 1900's. As a reporter and humanitarian, I have seen enough of life to know whereof I speak. I admit, the role of the unwed mother and the illegitimate child is not easy but they won't be considered pariahs—certainly not in a big city nor, for that matter, even in some small towns. As I write this, I am thinking of Mrs. Mary Lail, who, when last I saw her, was the midwife of Cimarron, N. M. From her lips, I heard the story of many a girl who longed to keep the baby born out of wedlock. Thanks to Mrs. Lail, they usually did. The son of one was an outstanding hero in the second World War. It is not so much what you were, but what you are that really counts.

Dear Helen: You often say that a marriage plagued by drink is a problem for both wife and husband to work out—with understanding, not nagging. I couldn't agree more. My own experience proves this. My husband drank lightly when we married. By the time I was 23 and the mother of three, he really hit the bottle—especially during my last pregnancy. Once the baby—a boy—came, he quit completely. I never nagged, even when I had cause, but did my best to be understanding and work with, instead of against him, on this problem which might easily have wrecked our marriage.

I treated his drinking as a disease, not a moral lapse, which could be cured. Today I have the most wonderful husband imaginable: kind, considerate and generous. Our love has been tested and neither of us were found wanting. —D.

Dear D.: To some extent, yours is the principle upon which Alcoholics Anonymous is founded. Teamwork could well be used to solve most marital problems.

Dear Helen: We girls of a Tacoma, Wash., match factory have just read a column of yours in an old newspaper and think you owe us an apology. You said "Unless a girl is a model for a match factory (and who wants to be that?) she just isn't built for these uncompromising panta's (pedal pushers). I'm for a girl looking her prettiest." We girls at the Tacoma match factory all wear pedal pushers. Why not visit our plant some day? It would do you good. —P. S.

Dear P. S.: I'll bet you aren't built like models for a match factory even though you work in one. However, I still insist that no girl, unless as snake-bitten as a cowboy, looks her best in pedal pushers. Thanks for the invitation to visit your plant.

17 miles north of Fakfak.

The news was brought to the sleepy village of Kaimana—population about 1,000—by a Papuan Protestant minister, the Rev. M. Pesiwarissa. He carried a letter from a Papuan teacher in the jungle who told of seeing men "fall down from the sky" about May 10 or 12.

The Dutch governor of New Guinea, P. J. Plateel, flew to Kaimana. After a brief stay there, he was to fly on to Fakfak for an overnight inspection of the situation.

Fakfak, a copra port of 5,000 on the Ceram Sea in westernmost New Guinea, has been the scene of repeated Indonesian attempts to gain a foothold on the Dutch-held territory Indonesia claims. Dubois said the town was calm today.

Dutch planes downed an Indonesian transport plane Thursday off the West New Guinea coast near Fakfak, the Dutch said. Dutch marines two days before captured 20 Indonesians trying to make an amphibious landing near Fakfak.

However, there is at least one American genius who wasn't afraid to wear bifocal glasses. That was Benjamin Franklin, who was over 80 at the time.

Earlier, Ben had invented the platform rocker. His further invention of bifocal glasses only proved an old man's right to comfort—and a knowledge of what was going on.

Probably he did it to save his arm. He probably got tired of lifting his hand up to whip on or whip off his glasses to read.

One of the first things you notice about wearing bifocal glasses is how tired they make your eyeballs. They aren't used to all that exercise.

Bifocals make a big difference in your life. It isn't only that you can now read a telephone book number without having a friend hold the directory in front of you halfway across the street.

Bifocals make a fellow more responsible—that is, as responsible as a fellow with a split-level view can be. For they do have this disadvantage: Everything is either to big to be there or too small to be here.

This causes what is known as the "bifocal look"—a lifted chin expression of staring uncertainty. You have a problem of perspective.

A horse in front of you looks like an ordinary horse. But a worm on the rain-wet pavement at the same moment looms up like a sea monster in attack.

There are women who will go almost to any extent rather than wear bifocals because they say that this type of glasses gives them a grandmotherly look.

My own feeling is that any woman who needs bifocals probably deserves to look like a grandmother, and ought to look like a grandmother, and what is so terrible about that? Glamorous Marie Dietrich doesn't mind being a grandma.

After 40, Bifocals Open New World

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you a bifocal? Are you a bifocal?

Some people who could best use bifocals disdain them from pride. They think they can see all they want to without recourse to the double view.

But people who don't wear bifocals after 40 don't know what they are missing.

It took me 50 years of living—I'm slow to appreciate bifocals, but now that I have learned to do so I wouldn't trade them for freckles or load stains.

Many people say they would prefer to stumble and fall down the family laundry chute rather than wear bifocal eyeglasses. Well, all I can say is, there is always a certain amount of false pride involved in meeting any situation.

However, there is at least one American genius who wasn't afraid to wear bifocal glasses. That was Benjamin Franklin, who was over 80 at the time.

Earlier, Ben had invented the platform rocker. His further invention of bifocal glasses only proved an old man's right to comfort—and a knowledge of what was going on.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

Is The Lord Our God

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it...time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.
